

Rejuvaderm and Emu Oil

Years of research have found that Emu Oil has the property of penetrating into the layers of skin. It is, therefore, very helpful in treating skin problems. Emu Oil contains a high level of Omega 3 and Omega 6 fats that stimulate the growth of new skin cells. Vitamin E is also an important ingredient which is considered to be a great skin rejuvenator. It also helps in absorption of oil into the skin. Linolenic acid and oleic acid are also present in the oil. Emu Oil is a good alternative to prescribed medicines as it is completely natural. All its contents are from natural sources and are highly beneficial. No side effects have been found as yet.

Emu Oil can be used to get rid of stretch marks. Emu Oil is used for repair of damaged skin as in the case of scars and stretch marks. It is recommended that you rub in Rejuvaderm after taking a shower as that softens the skin and ensures more absorption. Rejuvaderm is a blend that can be directly rubbed on to the affected area twice or thrice everyday. It contains a 1.6% of the essential oils Helichrysum, Lavender, and Neroli.

Emu Oil stretch marks benefits are many. First of all, it is natural. It has proved to be very effective in treatment of damaged skin cells by promoting growth of new skin cells. It is an excellent alternative to expensive allopathic medicines. It has no side effects. It promotes healing by penetrating in all the five dermis layers. Not only this, it also helps in shedding dead skin cells. However, don't expect instantaneous results. The stretch marks may take some time to fade. Emu Oil gets rid of stretch marks in a natural and effective way to fight stretch marks.
